THE WRESTLING MATCH

New York, Feb. 7.-For one hour and 17 minutes Errosat Roeber, the American champion wrestler, and the French champion, Paul Pons, struggled for supremacy in a roped ring in Madison Square garden Wednesday night. They might have gone on for another hour, but the arbitrary order of Police Inspector Thompson, who declared that he would not at-night, stopped the match in a most unsatisfactory manner at midnight. Pons held the upper hand at early every stage of the contest, but he lucked the eleverness of the samiler man, who was never caught, unawares at any moment, and Roebers, though by many years the older and in statue far inferior to the big forsigner, more than held his own. That the bout was on the level there are propile who left the oig building had only the warmest pasise for the athletes.
